THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1908.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

Rev. Cooke of Brandon ought to consider himself sufficiently "done" by yesterday's conference court.

Now we read that Emperor William is pinched by the hard times, with an income of a paltry four millions.

Massachusetts can't be figured in the Taft column; hence a "crime" has been committed in Taft's supposed stronghold.

The Burlington license commissioners have prepared a deplorable, obnoxious to which by the license holders furnishes freedom from molestation.

Was it such a great change after all for some of the New England railroad men meeting at Waterbury to make that trip to the sugar woods by ox team?

By publicly announcing that he is a suitor for Madame Anna Gould's hand (and fortune) Prince Helle de Sagan is evidently counting on the moral support of the public.

If Harry Parker makes his Montpelier business as successful as his Bradford plant—and there's no reason to expect he won't—Montpelier will have added a notch to its prosperity.

To gain an idea of the far-South prejudice against the negro, note that a Vermont young man was nearly lynched on Tuesday at Atlanta, Georgia, because he was caught in a negro's house.

The Montpelier Evening Argus evidently has such a poor opinion of Barre that any lurid tale that suggests itself to the contemporary immediately becomes a fact in the imagination of those who write its stories. It is only on this supposition that one can explain why it should publish such a yarn of pure invention as it did last week to the effect that criminals printed in English and Italian had been distributed in Barre advising the strikers to go into the local stores and help themselves, if they are hungry. In and around Barre, where the proclivities of The Argus are known April 2nd, 1792—just 116 years ago today first United States Coinage Law passed.

This is a good day to bring in some of your coin and exchange it for a new Spring Suit—no last year's styles to be coined off here—all new goods.

due allowance is made for them, but daily papers in other places, not fully appreciating these facts, have republished and given circulation to the story and many people are wrongly led to believe that a spirit of lawlessness exists in this city. It is doubtful if any strike of like proportions, anywhere, in the past dozen years has been conducted so peacefully as has the present tie-up of the granite industry in this county, now nearing the end of its fifth week.

OUR BRAWLING CONGRESSMEN.

An unfortunate grouping of events has latterly served to bring the national legislative assembly into bad repute. Not to forget the Williams-DeArmond fist encounter on the floor of the House (Who that appreciates the good name of Congress will ever forget it?) there came next the act of Congressman Heflin in shooting a negro, who, contrary to Heflin's ideas of etiquette, persisted in drinking whiskey in a street car. Not to be outdone in notoriety, Congressman Clark of Florida up and attacks a drunken man in the corridor of one of Washington's hotels, even "having him going" as the Congressman slyly remarked after friends had pulled the two fighters apart. And now the latest is the arrest of Senator Jeff Davis for brawling on the streets of Little Rock, Arkansas, and subsequently fined in the police court of that city. Perhaps the end is not yet. Decent people hope so, but they can hardly expect it in view of the strain of blood that is running through Congress. It may be merely a coincidence that every one of the five men concerned in the four disgraceful incidents mentioned come from the South. We prefer to say that it is merely a coincidence. But whether Northerners or Southerners are concerned, the constituents of them all ought to see to it that the incidents are not repeated, or if repeated, that it be for the last time. Men no more gifted with self-restraint than that are apt to lose their heads also in grave councils of state.

AN ACCIDENT OF THE PROFESSION.

A great many readers of the Boston Sunday Globe will miss the philosophizing of Howard's letters, the writer of them having just passed away in New York at the age of 75 years. Joe Howard was an accident of the newspaper profession, but he proved to be a fit right at the start. After a varied career for 27 years, young Howard found himself in Lynn, Mass., penniless and without a prospect. A big strike was on in Lynn at the time, 1880, and while wandering around Howard ran into a bunch of newspaper men who were enrolling each other because they couldn't get any information out of the strikers. Seizing upon this as a strategic movement, Howard hired himself as reporter for the New York Times and boldly forced his way into the strikers' meeting, demanding that he be given a chance to learn their side of the case so that he could plead their cause to his paper. The abruptness of his entry and his imperative manner, together with a few talking stories, completely won the strikers and they then and there proceeded to lay bare their innermost secrets. Having gained his purpose, Howard went out and telegraphed a graphic story to the New York Times and without explanation signed it "Howard." Nobody in The Times office knew who Howard was, but they published the article. When Henry J. Raymond, the owner of the paper, saw the article in print the next morning he wondered as much as had his editors the night before as to the identity of "Howard." But recognizing the good points of the story he enrolled as a member of Raymond's staff, and he had followed the profession for the remainder of his life, sending his last weekly letter to the Boston Globe last month. So it was that Joe Howard was an accident of the profession, but a lucky one at that.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Disappointment in Northfield.

It is disappointing to learn that no building for the United States weather bureau at Norwich university will be forthcoming this year. When the agricultural appropriation bill was considered in the House, last week, the provision for such a building in a bill introduced by Congressman Hawkins earlier in the season and referred to the agricultural committee, of which he is a member, was stricken out. When the United States weather bureau service was established in Burlington two or three years since, there appeared to be no great difficulty in securing the small appropriation necessary for a building there.—Northfield News.

Don Jose de J. Paul Recalled.

It may be noted that Don Jose de J. Paul, who as foreign minister of Venezuela has been trying to explain to the American minister to Venezuela how the cruiser Tacoma's mail pouches happened to be opened at La Guaira is not unknown in Vermont. A few years ago he spent a very dry week at Northfield-on-the-Dog, with Hon. Frank Plimley and M. le Conte Peretti de la Rocca, settling asphalt claims. It now looks as if he might have other claims to adjust.—St. Johnsbury Republican.

People are getting up earlier in Burlington; the barbers there have voted to open their shops at 7, instead of 7:30.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

try the following delightful dessert:
1-2 cup English Walnut meats.
1-2 doz. figs, cut up fine.
1-100 package JELL-O, any flavor.
Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water. When cool and just commencing to thicken stir in the figs and nuts. Serve with Whipped Cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.

CAN'T REPORT GOLDMAN.

On The Ground That She is an Undesirable Citizen.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—It was declared here yesterday on authority that Attorney-General Bonaparte, who has had the case under consideration for some time, has been unable to find legal ground for deporting Emma Goldman, the anarchist leader, as an undesirable citizen. Neither can Miss Goldman be barred at American ports if she leaves the country and returns.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus, Immigration Commissioner Frank P. Sargent and Labor Commissioner Neil had a long conference yesterday on the operation of the recent order of the secretary relative to the arrest and deportation of alien gals of felonies before coming to the United States. Reports from all over the United States in answer to the secretary's order were before the conference.

These included a demand from Police Commissioner Ringham of New York for the arrest and deportation of more than twenty criminal aliens in New York city. The police record of these persons have been secured, and in conjunction with an investigation by W. P. Hazen, former chief of the federal secret service, who is a special representative of the department in New York, it is shown that some of them have been convicted and sentenced to penal institutions as many as five times. The crimes range all the way from murder to theft.

Warrants are asked for arrest in each instance, and the department is now engaged in ascertaining whether or not the men wanted have arrived in the United States within the last three years. If they have they can be deported under the law.

The national association of chiefs of police are working in harmony with the department of commerce and labor, and it is expected that substantial results will accrue in a short time.

AGED VERNON WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. Eliza P. Allen at 96 Years Was The Oldest Person in Town.

Brattleboro, April 2.—Mrs. Eliza Paine Allen of Vernon, aged 96 years, died Tuesday after an illness of a few days of heart and gastric troubles. She was the oldest person in that town for its longevity, her grandmother living to be 102 years old and several other members passing the age of 90 years.

Mrs. Allen was born in Townsend February 25, 1812, and was a daughter of Roswell and Clarissa (Burt) Doolittle sixth in the descent from Abraham Doolittle, of New Haven, Conn., the ancestor of all the Doolittles in this country. She was married to Robert Allen of Stutesboro, Mass., in 1825. They settled in Wallingford and afterward moved to Vernon. Mr. Allen died twenty years ago. Mrs. Allen was a constant attendant at the Adventist Christian church, and her funeral was held there at 2 o'clock. She is survived by three sons, Orrin Peer Allen of Palmer, Mass., Jason Cady Allen of Vernon and Robert Clark Allen of North Springfield.

VERMONTERS LOST.

Fordham Landed on Collins in the First Inning; Score 6 to 1.

New York, April 2.—Fordham defeated the university of Vermont yesterday at Fordham Field by the score of six to one. Fordham secured a commanding lead of six runs in the opening inning and was never pushed during the entire game.

Vermont scored her run in the eighth, when Egan allowed an infield fly to slip through his fingers, Collins securing the run. Coffey made a pretty play in the fifth inning, pulling in a fly ball and doubling up the runner on first. Mahoney had the visitors well under his control during the six innings that he pitched, and Egan was equally effective. McConnell relieved Collins for the Burlington players and fared well. Score by innings: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—RHE Fordham 6 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—6 7 4 Vermont 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 6 3 Batteries: Mahoney, Egan and McDonald; Collins, McConnell and Burlington.

JINGLES AND JESTS

Driven to It.

I knew a girl in Santa Fe Who loved me well, it seems; For every time I went away She wrote me reams and reams.

The list she wrote was very bad, Her style was full of stings; Her thoughts were few, her ink was sad— I never read the things.

But still they came—a hundredweight Each day and often more; And I would pile them in the grate And blow them with the blower.

They put three postmen on the beat, But I am much afraid That this device quite failed to meet The business that she made.

In vain I changed my street address, And gave my name as Krupp; For hardly had I moved—ah, yes— Her agents looked me up.

'Twas idle for me to demur And wire: "Please desist." I never knew a girl like her, With such a supple wrist.

The letters poured on in a hail— Until at last one day I stumbled out across my mail And hailed for Santa Fe.

Said I: "You have a pretty wit, But, alas, I've got my fill— I'll marry you if you'll just quit." Quoth she: "Why, sure I will." —Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A Sudden Metamorphosis.

"Who," she said is that scrawny, bow-legged, ridiculous looking person talking to Miss Rockingham?" "That is Count Brispicknitzel." "Oh! What an aristocratic, noble bearing he seems to have now that he has shifted his position so that the light strikes him properly." —Chicago Record-Herald.

A Hardened Criminal.

Wigg (relating his experience with a burglar)—The fellow was an amateur all right, for when I pointed my pistol at him he stood petrified with fear.

Wagg—He did? Then you're mistaken about his being an amateur. If he was petrified, it's clear that he was a hardened criminal.—Boston Transcript.

EVANS PLAINLY SICK.

Has Left Fleet and Gone to Mineral Hot Springs.

San Diego, April 2.—The flagship Connecticut of the Atlantic fleet with Rear Admiral Robley Evans on board arrived off Coronado yesterday morning and before noon the admiral was taken off on the tender Yankton and brought to this city where a private car was placed at his disposal. Admiral Evans plainly shows the effects of his illness. He left yesterday afternoon for San Luis Obispo to receive treatment at the mineral hot springs.

At a recent special inspection of Co. L, 1st Inf., V. N. G., Newport, the inspector reported that he found the company this time in a worse condition than before. He found no fault with the commissioned officers but placed the blame on the privates. Capt. Clarence W. Richmond has tendered his resignation but the inspector or the results of it had nothing to do with his act, which he has contemplated for some time.

The annual school meeting in Winooski Tuesday evening voted a 40 cent tax.

Woman Smokers in Ireland.

The comparison between women smoking in England and in Ireland, says a correspondent, is hardly on all fours. In Ireland many of the older women whose lives are spent in hard toil smoke in the country districts, but they would utterly disdain a cigarette. They smoke a short "cutty" pipe and the very strongest and most pungent tobacco—Limerick roll. It is no uncommon thing for a man to hand his lighted "cutty" pipe, black with long seasoned smoking, over to a woman for a "draw," as it is called. In Ireland the pipe has long been the solace of the poor, aged, hardworking woman, and the habit has its origin in the use of tobacco for allaying the pangs of hunger in famine days.

A Greater Noise.

They had removed from New York to a quiet country town, and a new neighbor was tenting his sympathy. "I guess you must miss the noise of the elevated cars a good deal," he said. "I don't suppose you could go to sleep at first because you were so used to hearing them where you lived."

"I never heard them," said the lady from New York. "My husband was—Cleveland Plain Dealer."

Ment and Cold.

The greatest heat is never found at the equator, but some ten degrees from the north, while more severe cold has been registered in northern Alaska than has been found near the pole.
